Only minutes south of majestic Dubrovnik is the ancient Roman settlement of Cavtat and the rolling arcadial Konavle valley-the very southernmost parts of Croatia before it meets the rugged coastline and mountainous terrain of Montenegro Combining Cavtat and Konavle makes for a wonderful day tour that takes you from an historic seaside village into the hidden interior of southernmost Croatia. Cavtat's past, present and future are very closely tied to Dubrovnik's and this historically rich area is a delight – its Old Town is a warren of narrow streets and cobbled alleys and its serpentine waterfront promenade that frames a picturesque harbor is simply charming.

After visiting Cavtat, we continue into the beautiful interior of the area known as the Konavle. Framed by the southern mountains of Herzegovina and Montenegro, its small population lives in some 32 picturesque villages scattered across this south-easterly tip of Croatia.

Tour description:

Among all wine tours in Dubrovnik area, this one is, by far the most unique and the most interesting one! Peljesac Wine Tour takes you to the beautiful Pelješac peninsula. Located in the heart of South Dalmatia, this picturesque area is home to some of the most intriguing red wines in Europe. Our private wine tour includes a trio of wine-tasting opportunities at Croatia's most respected wine cellars, field visits to their vineyards on the slopes of this magnificent peninsula and a magnificent Dalmatian lunch (at extra cost) at the Mali Ston at Bota Sare. Your driver will be your personal guide throughout the day. Our first experience on Peljesac is the Matusko winery, where you will get a chance to taste red & white wines and his now legendary, DINGAČ red one, made of 100% Plavac Mali grapes. Next, we visit the Grgic winery in Trstenik. Miljenko Grgich studied wine-making in Zagreb. After migrating to the US, with only $20 in his pocket, he founded the famous Grgich Hills winery in Napa Valley but not before he made a name for himself being part of Chateau Montelena success story in the 70s! While you visit the Grgic cellars, you will taste their famous white Posip and their red Plavac Mali Dingac. The winery is located on a hill overlooking the charming Trstenik harbor.

We continue to oyster tasting.

In the times of the Dubrovnik Republic, Ston was the second most important town. Its wealth was derived from the salt production, which continues to exist through centuries. Although renowned for the spectacular city walls that are considered to be the second longest in the world, this region is predominantly known as the "oyster capital" of Croatia.

Join our hosts for a boat ride among the oyster beds and find out how oysters are cultivated. You will have unique opportunity to pick your own oyster and taste it directly on sea from your private boat. Only way to get to oyster farm.

If you wish, we can also arrange a delicious lunch at at Bota Sare where you can taste best fish food. All accompanied by wines from Peljesac ...
